KEEN INTEREST IN AUTOMOBILE SHOW

The Auto show now under way in the garage of the King Motor Co., Bedford is proving a delightful and interesting exhibit to a host of people who are patronizing it, both afternoon and night. The dealers participating are to be congratulated for their display of fine cars and it is evident that they have spared no expense in their endeavor to please both ear and eye. The decoration is both pleasing and elaborate and concerts splendid. The Bedford Band playing a concert each night of the show in their usual snappy style.

Beginning tonight the show will feature a program of interpreting dancing by twelve year old Miss Marcia Sweet of Huntingdon, who for several years has attended the "Chalfi Russian School of Dancing," New York, and who needs no further mastery of the art of dancing. She will also dance tomorrow, Saturday, the closing night of the show.

Those who miss the show and entertainments so splendidly arranged will miss a treat and again we say that the dealers are to be congratulated on their splendid show and its many features.

BROAD TOP COAL TRACT SELLS FOR $275,000

One of the largest real estate transactions in the Broad Top region was consummated when the Kay Coal Mining company, of Everett, sold to the Penn Central Light and Power Company 2,700 acres of coal land in the Broad Top field. The tract, which is located in Bedford and Huntingdon counties, Pa., is known as the old Smedburg, or the Riddleburg Coal and Iron Company land.

The transfer to the Penn Central people includes the Schnell mines, the Octoraro mines, the Rock Bar and Baylor openings, the Hickory Hill mines near Defiance, and the Mt. Equity mine near Riddlesburg.

After the Penn Central company secured an option on the Kay interests, four holes were drilled at various places on the tract and coal was discovered that was not known by the present or former owners to exist. A seven-foot Fulton seam was found, also two veins about the Kelly seam, making the tract even more valuable than was thought. This is sufficient coal at present rate of mining to last seventy-five years. The purchase price was $275,000.

FIERY CROSS BURNED AT OSTERBURG

A fiery cross 35 feet in height was burned last Saturday night at Osterburg on the highest hill just north west of Osterburg overlooking the town and Churchville and St. Clairsville and the surrounding country for several miles around.

The heavy charges of dynamite were put off in quick succession at 8:30 which was signal to the people. Upon hearing the shots everybody ran out into the streets when all at once the cross was lighted, the flames shooting heavenward illuminating the surrounding community. It burned for a half hour and it is believed that the burning of the cross was done by the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan from somewhere. At the same hour four crosses were also burned at Altoona and one at Hollidaysburg.

Getting Their Second Wind

It has been some time since our Grange told its sister Granges how we are getting along. As we look back over the past, we are confronted by the fact that we have lost a considerable number of members. Our Grange started off with the largest charter membership of any Grange ever formed, 352. However, it was probably to be expected in such a large number a certain proportion would drop out. But we still have a substantial membership, and those of us who remain are beginning to get our second wind. It is our purpose to keep right on and to build on solid foundation.

Our meetings are very good and we are mastering the work of the ritual. The social side of the Grange appeals to us strongly. We meet every Monday night at seven-thirty o'clock, and we try to make our gatherings worth while. We make good use of Grange Melodies, and our Lecturer always has a good program. Every Grange should utilize the possibilities of the Lecturer's hour.

Among other things, we have what we call the "mite" box. In this we gather up the stray pennies at each meeting. On the first Monday night of each month, after the labors of the day are completed, we have refreshments out of the funds we gather in the "mite" box. This may seem tame to some of the older Granges, but it helps us to keep on friendly and sociable terms with each other.

We have great respect for the beautiful teachings of the Grange ritual and for the general aims and principals of our great Order.

We extend a special invitation to our members to attend the meetings and help us to build up again what we have lost during the past year of depression.

C. E. FORD, Secretary, Hopewell Grange, Bedford Co.

DEMOCRATS ELECT CHICAGO'S MAYOR

Chicago, April 5.—William E. Dever, Democrat, was chosen mayor of Chicago to succeed William Hale Thompson in Tuesday's municipal election by a plurality of 103,748.

With Dever was elected a Democratic city clerk and city treasurer and thirty-eight of fifty aldermen. The election brings about a complete new alignment of political power. The victory firmly establishes the right of George E. Brennan, to succeed Roger Sullivan as Democratic "boss" of Chicago. He directed Dever's campaign and united the Democrats behind the ticket.

Dever defeated Arthur C. Leader Republican, by a vote of 387,961 to 248,213. William E. Cunna, Socialist, polled 40,841 votes, nearly double the Socialist vote at the last municipal election.

Mrs. Margaret Border died at her home near Westside, Bedford county, on last Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, aged 82 years; 8 months and 23 days. The following children survive: John H. W. C. T. U. PLAYLET A GREAT SUCCESS

A crowded house greeted the local W. C. T. U. on Tuesday evening at the Civic Club rooms where the last enforcement playlet entitled "My Place, Your Place, Any Place" was presented to the delight of all present.

The perfect rendition of this telling defense of the Eighteenth Amendment by our loyal women was deserving of the high commendation it received from the enthusiastic audience.

Other program numbers worthy of special note were readings by Miss Wallace, a piano solo by Miss Ruth Steiner who played in her usual masterful way Chopin's Polonaise Military; and a hearty chorus of twenty voices rendered J. G. Dailey's song, "It Is There to Stay."

Mrs. A. C. Blackburn, local W. C. T. U. president presided.

WATER METERS TO BE INSTALLED

In approving the ordinance passed by council, on March 23rd, last, providing for the installation within the borough of water meters for commercial and industrial purposes, Burgess Longenecker expressed his views relative to the same in the following message:

To the members of the Borough Council:

In approving this ordinance I do so with some reluctance, owing to the fact that its provisions are not general, but limited to certain classes, therein enumerated; and also for the reason that, while requiring additional payment for water uses over and above the amount of tax now assessed, and thereby penalized the user to that extent, it allows no credit or deduction where the quality amounts to less than the taxes assessed; and in these aspects the ordinance may seem discriminatory and open to objection.

I approve the ordinance, however, in the belief that the meter system, properly and fairly applied, is the best method of assessing rates or charges for water, or other like commodities; and with the assurance and understanding that this is a first step in the introduction of the meter system for water purposes into the borough, and that it is the purpose of council, in the near future, to make the same general in its application, so as to include not only the commercial and industrial classes, designated, but domestic users as well. Also that the schedule of rates will at as early a date as feasible, be equitably changed and revised, as future conditions and experience warrant.

(Signed) S. R. Longenecker, Chief Burgess.

MERRY-MAKERS

You will not want to miss seeing the Merry-Makers entertain at the Assembly Hall next Tuesday evening, April 10th, at 8 P. M. Your presence will encourage the Young people of our community to use their talents, and will also help to equip one of the rooms in the new High School building.

We have not the space to tell you all the good things you will see. "Little Sandy Romance," "Little Scotch Lassies." Hear our young people give you some readings and monologues, some in costume. Plenty of good humor, "Spinsterhood of Mary," "An Irishman's troubles," "An old maid's auntie telling how to raise BOYS," "Gypsy Flower Girl," Good musical novelties. Mrs. Dellew entertaining the Flapper and the Grandmas of other days will delight you with their contrast of costume and manners. See the girls wearing some of Mrs. Gilchrist's and Mrs. Russell's models of a few years back. If you like to laugh, hear the BLACK GIRLS. The change of seasons is worth the price of admission alone. One of the prettiest spectacular scenes we have had in Bedford for a long time. The colors, costumes and graceful movements all suggestive of the seasons coming and going. Hearing the BIRD CALLS while the LITTLE WOODS NYMPHS are at work. It's a thing of perfect grace and beauty. You will be sorry if you miss it.

NEW AUTO LAW SEVERE

Harrisburg, April 4.—If the Jones-Williams bill amending the state motor act, now before the Legislature, becomes a law, persons convicted of reckless driving, driving while intoxicated, or under the influence of dope, engaging in racing on the public highways, injuring another person or tampering with an automobile without the consent of the owner, will have to spend time in jail.

A proposed amendment to the act provides the court must inflict a jail sentence of not less than five days nor more than three years in addition to fines of not less than $200 nor more than $500.

Reckless driving of automobiles has become so flagrant that state officials deem it necessary to impose a jail sentence on those who so violate the law. Several other states have similar laws.

TAKE NOTICE!

Beware of the dog catcher. Be sure and put your tag on the dog and save paying a fine. The dog catcher is after all unlicensed dogs and dogs without tags on collar.

CIVIC CLUB WILL HOLD MEETING

The Bedford Civic Club will hold their regular April meeting on Monday evening, April 9th, in the club house, beginning promptly at 7:45. The officers hope all members will be present as much important business must be brought before the club.

The board has decided to observe National Guard Week during the week of April 22—28, and for this reason has invited Mr. Wm. L. Byers of the State Department of Forestry to make an address on "Trees" at the April meeting. How many of us realize the value as well as beauty in trees. Underlying this national movement to plant a Tree, a Shrub, a Flower or a Vegetable Garden, and to care for them after planting, is a desire to direct us all into thoughts of production and beauty instead of destruction and barrenness. It has been said "that the thinking of one generation becomes the practice of the next generation". If we of the present desire an excellent and beautiful Bedford, those who come after us will scarcely fail to maintain a high standard for the town if that standard has become a part of their lives.

The Civic Club has already reclaimed two of the Public Squares and has for some years been maintaining them as beautiful parks. This year the Club plans to plant shade trees from the Richard street bridge to the railroad station, along the unshaded south side where the walk runs, if P. R. R. permits.

The late Joyce Kilmer, who gave his life in France during the World War, has expressed his love for Trees in the following exquisite lines:

"I think I shall never see
A poem as lovely as a tree.
A tree whose hungry mouth is pressed
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast.
A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts her leafy arms to pray.
A tree that may in summer wear
A nest of robins in her hair.
Upon whose bosom snow has lain
Who intimately lives with rain.
Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree."

CHAUTAUQUA TO BE HELD JUNE 11-15

Chautauqua, this season, is to be held June 11 to June 15 inclusive, according to recent correspondence between the Redpath management and the local Chautauqua committee.

The five-day program is to include not only a Broadway comedy success "Cappy Ricks", but also a Chicago band under the direction of Francisco Pallaria, one of the most spectacular leaders in the ranks of metropolitan bandmasters. Signor Pallaria has directed bands in this country for the last seven years, and has been a sensational success on every tour. On his visit here he will introduce some novelty features that are sure to win applause approval.

Montville Flowers, known as one of America's five greatest lecturers, is coming from Pasadena California for a tour of the Redpath circuit. He has been in the public eye for more than 20 years, and is recognized as combining the many rare qualities that make a truly great and artistic platform orator.

Joseph Vierra and his Hawaiian singers and players will give "An evening in the South Seas". Their lighting and scenic effects will greatly enhance the charm of their entertainment on Chautauqua's closing day.

Jane Goude, with a program of miscellaneous humorous and dramatic numbers: The Harp Novelty Company, scheduled for the opening day; Edna Eugenia Lowe in a health lecture-demonstration, and at least two other special features are on the roster of attractions for the local assembly.

Approximately 90 towns in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania are on the Chautauqua circuit of which this community is a part. The circuit is to open June 5 and close early in September. Conditions are favorable for record interest and enthusiasm, such as already is being evidenced in Redpath Chautauqua that have been in operation in the southern states since the middle of March.

Blames U. S. Banks For Sugar Gamble

Rep. King Says Federal Reserve Is Backing Price Gougers

Washington, March 27.—Charging that the federal reserve board, by financing speculators, is responsible for increased sugar prices. Representative King, Illinois a member of the house banking and currency committee, today demanded that the board compel banks to quit aiding sugar speculators.

"If the federal reserve board refused to rediscount further notes and accepted based on sugar transactions and ordered banks not to aid in financing sugar speculators, the price of sugar would drop at once," Mr. King said.

Mr. King asserted that talk of prosecuting sugar profiteers was "bunk", as the federal reserve board finances the speculators.

"The present high price of sugar is due almost entirely to financing of speculators thru the federal reserve system," he continued. "This financing enabled the speculators to hold sugar off the market and boost the price."

"The federal reserve system, which the board dominates, has more to do with the rise and fall of commodity prices than any other institution in the United States. The credit extended to speculators by the federal reserve banks is really credit of the United States. Our own government, which means you and me, furnishes the money that makes the hoarding possible."

All this talk about Attorney General Daugherty indicting sugar profiteers and the department of commerce bringing pressure is pure bunk. Nothing can be done so long as the federal reserve finances the speculators."

BILL BOOSTER SAYS

A Great Jewel.
We publish beautiful editions of books, to be sure, and thousands of people enjoy them; but in ancient times the expense that we spread thinly over a thousand volumes was all compressed into one, and it became a great jewel of a book, a heavy folio, worth its weight in gold.—Hawthorne.

Too Bad!

Little Helen, aged six, was taken to her first baseball game. She became quite excited when her father cheered some particular play and waved his arms. Helen followed suit. At the critical stage, in the eighth inning, the batter got to first and then scooted for second, which he managed to reach just in time by a perfect slide. Helen was quite distressed and turning to her mother she said: "Oh, mamma, what a pity! The poor man slipped."

RENEWED TESTIMONY

No one in Bedford who suffers backache, headaches or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this Bedford man's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Bedford resident can doubt.

J. O. Henderson, Bedford St., says: "For sometime now I have had been troubled with my kidneys. I have had very bad headaches and a severe pain in the small of my back. At times I could hardly bend, the pains would catch me so bad. I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and found they were doing me good, so I kept on taking them. Now I have no headaches and the pains in my back do not bother me much. Whenever I feel it coming on, however, I use Doan's Kidney Pills right away and they rid me of all the trouble." (Statement given February 11, 1919.)

On July 26, 1922, Mr. Henderson said: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills gave me has proven lasting and I am more than glad to say a few additional words in behalf of this remark."

High Seas.
The term "high seas" is the open sea or ocean. The claims of various nations to the use rights and control over extensive tracts of the ocean highways have been settled after much controversy by a general international law. The principle now accepted is that the jurisdiction of maritime states extends only for three miles off their own coast; the remainder of the seas being high seas, accessible on equal terms to all nations. Inland seas and estuaries, of course, are excepted.

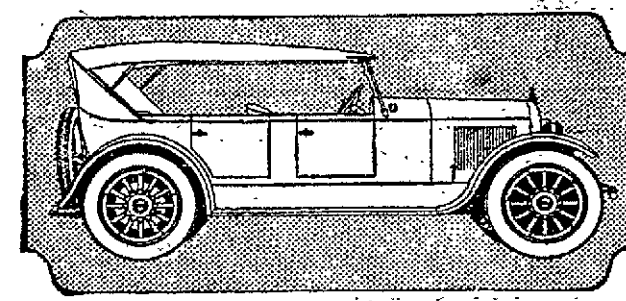

My Garden.

My garden invites into it all the birds of the country by offering them the convenience of springs and shades, solitude and shelter, and I do not suffer any one to destroy their nests. In spring or drive them from their usual haunts in fruit time. . . . By this means I have always the music of the season in its perfection.—Joseph Addison.

Mrs. Anna May Bellings, mother of Johnston's wife, testified that the defendant was her brother.

Smithfield.—When an army bombing plane crashed to earth here and was destroyed by fire Captain W. J. Henry and Lieutenant Harold Webster Reaton leaped from the machine and were not injured. The plane was on a trial flight from Bolling Field to Dayton when the accident occurred. According to Captain Henry it was forced down by inferior gasoline.

Harrisburg.—A sentence of eight months in the county jail was imposed by Judge Wickelheim in the Dauphin county court upon Mrs. Mary Kruger, charged with forcing her small stepson's hand into scalding butter. The woman was arrested several days ago, after complaints had been made that she was abusing her stepson. She pleaded guilty. The judge, in imposing sentence, termed the woman's offense "wanton cruelty."

Greensburg.—Caught with a trunk full of high explosives, enough to have blown up the whole town, which he was transporting on a train on the Pennsylvania railroad, Walter Bucknell, giving his address as Latrobe, is in the local jail under a serious charge. He first was detained on a suspicion that he was transporting liquor, and a search revealed the deadly cargo of dynamite.

Pittsburgh.—The third operating brewery in this district to be seized by federal officers within the month passed into their hands when they took charge in the Victor plant at Jeannette. Five thousand barrels of what Chief Simonds described as "real beer" were found in the vats. The other breweries taken over were the Westmoreland at Sutersville and the Windber at Windber. Taken with them were 9200 barrels of beer. It also was announced at the prohibition offices that a car containing 110 quarts of high-priced whisky had been confiscated in the city. It had been shipped to a fictitious tailoring company.

Wilkes-Barre.—After pleading guilty to violating the narcotic drug act, before Judge Fuller, in local court, Louis Angelo, of Patterson, N. J., who was arrested in this city some time ago, was ordered to pay a fine of $100 and costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Luzerne county jail for a period of three years. Police records were produced showing that Angelo is an habitual offender, having been arrested at least four times before for peddling dope.

It is proposed to wage the campaign through the county agents. Farmers are to be asked to thresh their grain from the fields, to fumigate their wheat bins where the grain is not hauled directly from the thresher to the mill and to stack wheat in the field rather than store it in barns, where threshing is postponed until early fall. It developed at the meeting that millers are gradually stopping the use of Pennsylvania-grown wheat, due to the activities of the moth, and it was pointed out that, unless intensive control is begun immediately, milling of local wheat must be abandoned. The campaign will be started in Berks, Cumberland, Dauphin, Juniata, Mifflin, Northumberland and Schuylkill counties.

Pittsburgh.—H. F. Sile, paymaster for the Harrison Creek Coal company, was sentenced to serve not less than two or more than four years in the Western penitentiary after he pleaded guilty to embezzlement. The company charged that Sile embezzled $12,900 by "padding" payrolls. Sile told the court he lost the money gambling.

Pittsburgh.—Plans of two hold-up men to rob William Pansky, a merchant of $7500 were frustrated when a bank president arrived at his office a few minutes late. When the Franklin savings and Trust company opened at 9 A. M., Pansky appeared with a check for $7500. The cashier refused to honor the check in the absence of the president. Pansky left the bank and was followed by the robbers, who dragged him into an alleyway and searched him. OTTER PLAYTIME

"Oswald Otter, do you want to play?" asked Oliver Otter.

"Of course," said Oswald Otter. "What a foolish question that is," he added. "As though I wouldn't want to play!"

"Dear me, dear me, did I ever hear of anything so funny? Why it makes me smile an otter's smile and laugh an otter's laugh."

"Well," said Oliver, "I did not mean it as such a foolish question as it sounded."

"I simply meant to ask you if you wanted to play now."

"That is a foolish question too," said Oswald. "To be sure, I want to play now. I am always ready to play."

"I can't imagine any creature more foolish than one who doesn't want to play."

"Neither can I," said Oliver.

"Then why do you ask such foolish questions?" inquired Oswald.

"I didn't mean to give you the idea that I thought you were not fond of playing but I wanted to count the number of otters who would join in the game."

"We're going to have a sliding game."

"Did any otter refuse?" asked Oswald.

"No," said Oliver.

"We're not much like our relatives, the Mink family," said Oswald.

"They aren't gentle and playful as we are, and we only eat fish. They will eat meat."

"The Weasel," said Oliver, "is also our cousin. He is a great hunter, and he is dangerous to the wood people. We are not as he is."

"We would not hunt anything and we would not hurt anything. Of course fish is what we like and we catch fish and eat them. That is our way. We will not change."

"And we are kindly and friendly and make pleasant pets. But let us not talk now, for the others are joining the frolic."

And at that the other otters came from all around. They wore their beautiful fur suits and looked very handsome.

Then they began to play.

Oliver took the lead and Oswald followed. He coasted down the bank on his tummy—right into the river below.

Then Oswald did the same, and so did every other otter. What a sight it was!

After that the otters followed each other down the slide.

And such fun as they had. They laughed in their little barking way and they seemed so gentle and happy and gay.

One little otter they called Mag-Tag. The other's real name was Maggie and she was a little younger than some of the others.

She wanted to play with the older otters too and she followed wherever they went.

One day one of the otters, seeing her following, had said to another otter:

"Well, there comes little Mag-Tag, she is always tagging after us!"

And so the name stuck to her.

But they were all so fond of Mag-Tag that the name became a pet name, and Mag-Tag would feel actually hurt if anyone called her Maggie.

So Mag-Tag came along for the sliding party this time, too. And she followed the rest of them in their playing.

What a good time she had and how nice the others were to her. They did not treat her as a baby, though she was younger.

"I heard some one talking today," said Mag-Tag. "They did not know I was hearing. They were talking of a little Pekingese dog—a dog from China, I believe."

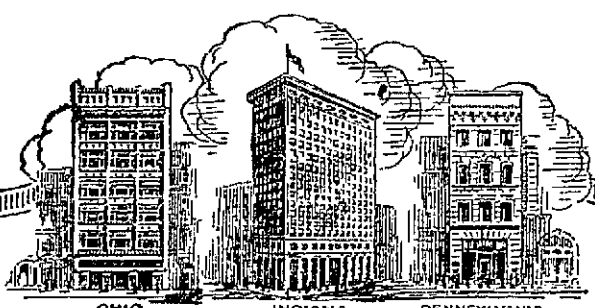

"And this dog has a jacket when he goes out and overshoes, too, for each of his four feet."

"But this was 'Overshoes, Too,' the funniest of all: He wears a flannel nightie when he goes to bed, to keep off the lumbago, which is some kind of stiffness and cold."

"He is a cranky little dog, too, I heard; but, dear me, when I heard of his even wearing a flannel nightie I thought to myself that I would not be surprised to hear of his taking a muff with him when he went walking."

"Oh, dear, oh, dear!" said another otter, "let's not talk of furs or muffs. They make me quite, quite nervous to think about."

So the otters began playing again, and were as cheery as cherry could be.

Fish in Philippine Waters.
The Philippine waters abound in food fishes, but fishing is done only in shallow waters, and the catch is not adequate for the demands of the islanders. Among the fish available are anchovies, herrings, pompanos, sea bass, mullets, milkfish, barracudas, porgies, grunts, parrot fish and soldier fish.

Observing Mammy.

Stop the Ache.

Zone-therapy is a system of relieving pain by applying pressure to the nerves—like shutting off the water or gas by turning a valve. For instance, to stop toothache, grasp the gums over the aching tooth, between thumb and forefinger. Press tightly! That is worth remembering. When you have toothache, everything else in the world fades into unimportance.

HOW TO KEEP YOUR BABY WELL

Conclusion

We are accustomed to talking about "The child" in the abstract as if all children are alike. Of course this is far from the truth. From a physical standpoint the difference are obvious. Coloring, features, height, weight, all shows a marked dissimilarity, even in children of the same family.

This is equally true of the less visible characteristics. Imagination, temperament, character—these are but a few of the traits in which children differ from each other.

Therefore every child is a study in itself. No generalities can fit all children. For this reason, these articles can but serve as a guide to these mothers who seek to add intelligence to instinct and who endeavor to understand the children entrusted to their care—physically, mentally, morally.

If they have given but a suggestion or two to those who are responsible for the growth and training of our boys and girls, we shall feel that the Babies' Prophylactic Clinic of the Henry Phipps Institute has made at least a small contribution toward Child Welfare.

DON'T GET UP NIGHTS

This Symptom Tells You There Is Danger Ahead. J. H. Dorton Relieved at Seventy

J. H. Dorton, W. Graham, Va., says: "I was told that getting up nights was a disease that belonged to old people. I have found different. I have taken Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) a short time and now I am normal. I had to get up 7 or 8 times a night. I have been troubled for 40 years. Will gladly tell anyone personally.

Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) acts on the kidneys and bladder like Epsom Salts on the bowels. It cleans them out, relieving the bladder of many abnormal deposits. These tablets cost 2c apiece. This price makes it possible to place in the formula several drugs which are useful for relief. The formula is on the package. It is not likely you have ever taken anything similar. Try a few tablets to rubachache, scalding, scanty or high colored urine, and frequent desire at night.

Be sure to get the Keller formula Lithiated Buchu at all drug stores, or write locally at F. W. Jordan's.

FARMERS' PAGE

Cove Farmers To Take Up Potatoes

Officer of State College to Supply Car Load of Michigan Seed Is Accepted and Big Returns Are Predicted.

UNION BANK STANDS AS SPONSOR TO MOVEMENT

In Return for Seed Growers Will Donate Three Carloads to Be Sold in Altoona for College Hospital.

Farmers of Morrisons Cove have banded themselves together in a potato growing club in order to accept the offer of State College through Dr. E. L. Nixon as explained at the Chamber of Commerce forum to plant a car load of potatoes and give in return three car loads which will be sold next fall, the proceeds of which will apply to the hospital fund at State College, after the cost of the seed is deducted.

In order to insure the success of the movement, plans were worked out through the Blair county farm bureau, with the assistance of Dr. Nixon and sufficient farmers in the cove have become interested to the extent of guaranteeing the success of the undertaking.

Bank Stands Sponsor

The cost of the car load of seed potatoes will be $2,500. To further insure the project against failure in the start the Union bank of Altoona will guarantee the first cost of seed and the contract and guarantee has already been signed by the president of the bank, Dr. J. D. Findley.

This leaves nothing to do but make the proper arrangements for the shipment of the seed and the distribution, which will be undertaken by the farm bureau, with R. Bruce Dunlap at the steering wheel. Dr. Nixon, declared that Morrisons Cove has the best potato land in the state, if not in the entire country.

Michigan produces the best disease free seed potatoes in the country. With this combination, along with what Dr. Nixon said relative to the ability of the farmers of the Cove to produce the crop, insures ultimate success.

Many Mutual Advantages.

The many advantages to be derived include the distribution of an entire car load of the finest seed potatoes in the country to the growers of Blair county. It also serves to interest the boys and girls in potato culture for profit and gives the Farm bureau and other agencies an excellent opportunity to disseminate better methods in farming.

Since the returns will be marketed in this city on a cooperative plan, in Altoona on a cooperative plan, a great advantage is to be gained in experience in modern methods of marketing. It will also serve to advertise home products, and provide the products to supply the demand that will be creating through the advertising.

In addition, it will be a material help to State college in providing funds for that great agricultural institution.

How Does Farmer Make Out. For this car load of potatoes the farmers of the Cove pledge themselves to ship to Altoona three car loads of marketable potatoes next fall to be sold, out of which the seed will be paid for and the balance will go to the college.

Fifteen bushels of seed will plant one acre. This will mean that for every fifteen bushels accepted by a farmer he must return forty-five bushels. According to past experience, the average production of an acre of potatoes in the cove is 150 bushels. That means that the farmer will have for his labor and the use of his soil, 105 bushels of potatoes.

His return even on an average yield from fifteen bushels, will provide spuds enough for his family for one year and seed for the next year to even double or treble his acreage.

Some Other Advantages

Dr. Nixon pointed out that if Altoona is to expand industrially, something must be done to supply the consumer with home products. He pointed out that 80 per cent of the food supply is grown outside a fifty mile radius.

That would indicate that but twenty per cent of the money taken from the consumer is never returned to the city for other commodities. Very little of the money expended for produce shipped into a city is ever expended in that city.

If Blair county can raise this percentage from 20 to around 50 per cent, it will mean that much more money to be expended here by the producer.

This is one of the most forward movements yet undertaken, agriculturally speaking, in Blair county and the results are bound to be far reaching.

The Cove is not the only good potato growing section of the county. The movement is bound to spread so that Blair county faces the problem of becoming the leading potato section in the country and, as Dr. Nixon said, the farmers not only have the land, but the brains to put the program through.

Getting Rid of That Garlic Flavor in Milk

"Now is the time for farmers to take preventive measures against the garlic flavor that makes its appearance in the milk. The wise farmer will take the simple precaution necessary each spring rather than allow an unpleasant flavor to appear in his milk, thus losing him sales."

The warning is sent out by C. I. Cohee, Jr., head of the Quality Control Department of the Inter-State Dairy Council, the education organization of the dairy interests supplying Philadelphia and nearby points.

"Farmers must realize that the garlic flavor in milk loses actual sales for them," warns Mr. Cohee. "Neither the milk dealers nor the consuming public will long continue to buy milk that has an unpleasant taste, regardless of how it may or may not affect the actual quality of the milk."

"Last spring as much as twenty-five per cent of the milk was turned back to the farmer daily because of the garlic flavor. Two years ago one company lost 20,000 quarts in sales in one week, simply because the garlic flavor was evident in the milk."

For this reason dealers are compelled to be rigid in their demands for milk free from all foreign flavors. The farmer should not expect to sell milk even slightly flavored with garlic. Even though it may pass his own inspection it may be condemned by the purchaser's inspector, who has an especially trained sense of smell.

"It is quite necessary to take steps that will eliminate, as nearly as possible the unpleasant garlic flavor," declares Mr. Cohee.

"The prevention measures are simple, requiring only ordinary precautions. The farmer should delay turning his cows out to pasture in the Spring until sufficient growth of grass can be found for the cattle without causing them to rely on garlic for food.

"A good plan, when starting the pasture season, is to turn out one cow first and only for a short period of time, using the milk of this one cow for home consumption alone. If the milk is found to be flavored with garlic, cut down the hours of pasturage, and continue cutting down until the point is reached where there is no longer any foreign flavor. Then and not until then, treat the remainder of the herd in the same manner."

"As a rule, cows cannot be left out more than two hours immediately after milking without the milk becoming flavored with grass or garlic."

The Inter-State Dairy Council offers to answer any questions and to help in solving any problems on the garlic trouble that the farmers themselves have been unsuccessful in solving. Letters should be addressed to C. I. Cohee, Jr., Quality Control Department, Inter-State Dairy Council, Head Building, 1211 Filbert St., Philadelphia.

The Dairy Council is sending extension workers into the districts particularly troubled with the garlic problem, but these workers will be unable to reach all districts where help will be needed. The organization has been assisting farmers in this problem each spring during the past two years, and in some districts has been able to abolish the garlic trouble almost altogether.

Why Price Fixing is The Only Way Out

A leading banker of the Northwest recently expressed the opinion to the writer that prices of farm products were high enough, but that the cost of articles purchased by the farmer was too high. The problem, therefore, as he expressed it, was to bring down the prices on the articles which the farmers purchased. This same sentiment was expressed many times by the leading city bankers of the Northwest at the recent Minnesota banker-farmer conference, held in Minnesota last January.

The president of the largest bank in the Northwest made a speech in which he took the position that prices of articles which the farmer purchases are too high and the reason was that labor was paid too much. Now that the farmer had been delatated to satisfy even the most hardened of city bankers, the next step was to deflate labor and be one step closer to prosperity and normalcy. This banker, during the course of his remarks, was interrupted and asked if the tariff had anything to do with the high prices, but he evaded this question.

The banker likewise objected to the policy of price stabilization of farm products on the ground that that was a war measure. "The war is over," declared this gentleman, "and war measures should not be revived." But did any one hear the city bankers oppose the reviving of the war finance corporation in order to unload slow and doubtful farmers' paper from the collateral pouches of city banks onto the war finance corporation? In other words, only the American people.

The war was over when the war finance corporation was revived. True, the leading city bankers told of the great help this had been to the farmers. That's what the junior senator from Minnesota also told the farmers and country bankers. But the farmers and country bankers knew better and on November 7 the people of Minnesota showed their feelings in this matter by retiring to private life the gentleman who made that statement.

That the country bankers, who with the farmers, are the real sufferers in the present situation did not take the remarks of the city bankers seriously is shown when the conference adopted two significant resolutions as follows:

Farmer Will Name Next President, Says Capper

Declares Harding's Re-election Depends Upon Solving Problems of Agriculture

Washington, March 25.—The American farmer holds the key to the White House in his toil-guarled hands.

Republican success at the polls in 1924 depends upon the farmer vote, Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, senate leader of the farm bloc, declared today.

Neither President Harding nor any other Republican can hope to be elected without the support of the farmers, Capper said. He conceded that the Republican ticket can expect opposition from labor.

Whether the farmers can be mobilized behind Harding, whose hat has been tossed into the ring by Attorney General Daugherty, between now and November 1924, Capper believes, will depend largely upon the prosperity of the agricultural industry during the intervening twenty months.

Good prices for bumper crops are needed to enable the farmers to share in the prosperity now enjoyed by most other industries, Capper said. Under such conditions, he believes the great mass of farmers in the west, mid-west and northwest will support the Republican nominee.

Bumper crops are forecast for this season and Capper pointed out that the administration is confronted with the task of aiding the farmers, who must take what others offer and give what others ask to realize more on their crops.

Farmers cannot hope for much better prices, Capper said, until they have a world market in which to sell their surplus products. Therefore, the most vital of three things which the administration can do to bring prosperity to the farmers, Capper said, was:

To call an economic conference in an effort to restore the European market for agricultural products.

Amend the Esch-Cummings transportation act by repealing the rate-making clause and bring about a reduction of excessive freight rates.

Accept Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals to give cheaper nitrate fertilizer to the farmers.

Capper believes foreign markets can be increased by granting foreign credits. A fight will be made in the new congress, he said, to pass legislation similar to the Norbeck-Nelson bill, which sought to give the war finance corporation power to purchase time drafts against foreign importers, guaranteed by foreign government.

Some solution of the transportation problem must be found in the new congress, he added. Most other industries are able to pass freight rates along, but the farmer cannot, and he declared the agricultural industry will demand relief.

In order to get bumper crops, Capper pointed out that cheap fertilizer is vital. Ford's proposal to operate Muscle Shoals, he said, offers immediate relief from the new charges for Chilean nitrates.

pause. "I did think, for a while, it might be best—for you. But that's wrong. I've got to be right on hand, for I'll be wanted. Now hold on while I tell you what we've got to do."

"Yes?" said Almee eagerly.
Billy stretched out a long arm, plucked a leaf from the blade that screened the cave, and chewed it pensively.

"There's just a gambler's chance," he said at last. "It's pretty thin—like drawing to a three-card flush. But it's wonderful how they come off sometimes, if you back your luck, good or bad."

He flashed the torch round the walls of the cave.

"What do you think of this place?"

"It's—snug."

"Snug!" echoed Billy admiringly. "That's you! It would give some women fits. But you've said. Do you think," he added diffidently, "that you could make out here for a bit? Could you sleep here?"

"Certainly I could. Why, they'll never find me!"

"Come up here," said Billy, leading the way along the cave, which turned in a long curve, narrowing to a very small space. At the end stood the Sphinx.

"She'll have to stay here, too. There's a bit of risk to that—but very little. We can't help it. In the pan-ner-case you'll find iron rations, a can-opener, biscuits, an' chocolate. I always carry those. Down the pit yonder, just by the alder bush, is a spring of water. That settles supplies."

"Now, the first deal is to keep you right out of the way. For a few hours, perhaps for a day or more—I can't say how long. But we've got to put up a bluff. And you'll be at least as safe here as anywhere in the British Isles."

"Our best chance is that the police may get the bracelets onto the real thieves right away. I'm not much stuck on that chance. Police, wherever you strike 'em, are—well, they're just police. We're in a lot more danger from them than that dead-beat who broke into Jervaulx, and the female tall-shake he had along. The police mustn't get you, at any price. And—this mustn't get me either. Only there's more to it than that. Half a hundred things. There's a mighty tangled deal in front of me."

"Now, I'm going to sail right in. All you've got to do is be here in this cache till about seven or eight o'clock. I'll be back here by then. If I'm not," said Billy quietly, "it'll be because I've fallen through. You bet your life I won't. But—if I don't get here by then, you must throw your hands in, just get straight to your father, best way you can. Do you promise that?"

"Y-yes! But tell me what you're going to do, Billy!" she said breathlessly.

"I can't tell you anything. I'll have to play the hand as it's dealt me, and it just depends how the cards fall. And don't you worry any!" he said earnestly. "If you get doubtful or scary, just wash it right out of your mind, an' say this: 'Billy's running the thing for me, an' he'll see me through.' I'm off. Shake!"

With a sudden gesture Almee put both her hands in his. He gave them a crushing grip, and broke into the sunniest smile.

"We sure are seem' life, partner!" he chuckled.

Almee replied with a rather tremulous laugh. The next moment Billy had dropped her hands, and was gone.

Once clear of the crag-pits, Billy made for the road by another route. While climbing a gate he glanced at the luminous dial of his wrist watch, and emitted a whistle of consternation. Almee's account of herself was absorbing, but he did not realize till now what an unreasonable time they had spent in the cave. The night was nearing its close.

Billy avoided the roads. He struck right across country and reached Ivy cottage with as little loss of time as possible. But the eastern sky was rapidly lightening when he arrived. Entering the garden with extreme caution, Billy found everything quiet. He climbed the trellis deftly, and heaved himself through Almee's window.

With a certain sense of embarrassment Billy swept the walls with his torch, unhooked the blue dust-cloak that hung on the door, folded it small, and packed it inside his jacket. That was the main object of the expedition.

He also annexed a cake of soap, a towel and a brush and comb—these latter he had himself bought for Almee at Syderford on the first morning. Billy again descended the trellis, raked over his footprints carefully, and with all possible speed shook the mud of Ivy cottage from his feet.

It was broad daylight when he had crossed the fields and came within sight of Jervaulx abbey. He hid the cloak and its accessories under a thorn bush, glanced at his watch again, seated himself under the hedge, and lit a cigarette.

He drew the jewel case from his pocket and examined the necklace, thoughtfully emitting puffs of smoke. Then he replaced the case in his pocket and finished his cigarette, his smooth forehead wrinkling into tiny lines. Finally he rose and walked briskly towards the entrance lodge of Jervaulx.

There was no electric bell in the great porch. He pulled a pendant handle of wrought iron, and was answered by an archaic clanging inside. After a brief pause the doors were thrown open by Tarbeaux the butler. He looked at Billy inquiringly.

"I want to see the proprietor—on urgent business," said Billy. "Is he up yet?"

"If you mean Lady Erythea Lambe," said Mr. Tarbeaux with dignity, "her ladyship has not yet risen."

"I am a stranger here," said Billy, "but what I want you to do is get a message to her ladyship that it will be worth her while to see me as soon as convenient. Say I've important news about some property that's missing from here."

Mr. Tarbeaux became more alert. "Come this way," he said, and Billy followed him.

In less than ten minutes Lady Erythea arrived, pallid after her night of stress, but unconquerable, clad in a purple wrap. Billy turned to face that tremendous presence.

"What do you want to see me about?" she said sternly.

With his sunniest smile, Billy

Billy Laid Before Her the Lambe Emeralds.

opened the leather case and laid before her the Lambe emeralds.

CHAPTER XIII

"Very Good, My Lady."

"Do these interest you, madame?" said Billy snappily.

Lady Erythea stared as though the green gems hypnotized her. Then, with a little gasp of joy, she lifted them from the case with trembling fingers. It was one of the rare occasions of her life when Lady Erythea exhibited emotion.

She laid down the necklace and looked at Billy as one might regard a materialized angel. Before she could speak, however, Mr. Alexander Lambe entered the room.

It has been said that Mr. Lambe's eyes were large. They expanded indescribably when he saw the Lambe necklace lying on the table. He closed the door softly behind him, and approached the table in an awestruck manner.

He glanced from the emeralds to Lady Erythea's face, and then, somewhat sternly, at Billy.

"How did you come by these?" said Lady Erythea, pointing to the emeralds. Suddenly she presented the ear-trumpet at Billy. "Explain!"

The ear-trumpet startled Billy a little. He felt—so he declared to Almee afterward—as if Lady Erythea had the drop on him. But his face, as he answered, was ingenious as a baby's.

"I was passing by your park gates early this morning, on my way to Syderford. It was just one, an' the house was dark. When I got to the place where the lane turns into the road I heard a motorcycle coming up behind, an' I for—coming mighty quick," said Billy, turning pink. "It came right by me, pretty near out of control. It hadn't any lights, there was a bend just ahead, an' I heard it crash."

Billy delivered this with a beautiful fluency into the ear-trumpet.

"I just ran in on them," pursued Billy, "for I didn't have to stop an' figure it out that an outfit traveling that way with lights out at one in the morning was up to any good. They were just picking themselves up when I arrived, and they went for me—"

"Was it a man and a woman?" exclaimed Mr. Lambe.

"You've hit it, sir."

"My dear aunt!" cried Alexander, "the inspector told me, after you retired, that he suspected a man and a woman, on a motorcycle, of being the thieves! They can be no other than those people who ran into us yesterday on the Syderford road—"

"Hold your tongue, Alexander," interrupted Lady Erythea impatiently, "and allow this amazing young man to continue!"

"There was some scrap," said Billy diffidently, "maybe if there'd been two men I'd have done better, but the lady hampered me, and somehow I took the count. They knocked me out, and got away. But they left this behind them," he pointed to the case of emeralds, "and it looks like they never knew they'd lost it. I don't know, madam, if there was anything else of yours they got. If so, I'm very sorry I didn't attach it, and rope the two thieves for you as well. But, with the pair of them, it was rather a roughhouse. I did my best."

There was a flush of admiration on Lady Erythea's high cheek-bones. "Yes, there were other jewels stolen," she said, "but their value is the merest trifle compared to what you have restored to me. These emeralds are my most priceless family possession. They are historic—nothing could have recompensed me for the loss of them. Your conduct has been not only intelligent, but extraordinarily gallant. May I ask your name?"

"Spencer. William Spencer."

"Mr. Spencer, it is impossible for me to express my gratitude in words. I thank you most heartily for what you have done; it is fortunate for me the emeralds fell into such good hands. Let me say that I was about to offer a reward for information leading to the recovery of the jewels; a reward of—"

Lady Erythea hesitated, and achieved an inward struggle—"one hundred pounds. But I must really ask you to accept a hundred and fifty."

Lady Erythea unlocked a desk, and produced a check-book. Billy flushed red.

"Madam," he said quietly, "the service I did you cost me nothing. I'm glad you have your jewels back. I'm a man who earns his living, but I don't accept gratuities. And people very scarcely ever offer them to me."

Lady Erythea turned somewhat pink in her turn. She slid the check-book aside.

"I beg your pardon," she said, with some embarrassment, mingled with relief and a touch almost of annoyance. "It was the least I could do. You will accept no recompense?"

"None, madam. Anyway not in money."

"You are not English, are you?"

"American. And a Westerner, at that."

"Ah! You have done me a great service. Is there nothing I can do for you?"

Before Billy could reply, Mr. Tarbeaux opened the door.

"My lady, Inspector Panke—"

Mr. Tarbeaux's gaze fell on the emeralds. He was very human for a butler, and it took him a fraction of a second to recover himself.

"Inspector Panke urgently desires to see your ladyship at once."

"Show him in here," said Lady Erythea grimly.

Billy did not move an eyelid. It seemed to him that Mr. Lambe's solemn eyes were watching him rather intently. Inspector Panke appeared.

It was a great day in the Lambe emeralds' history. The inspector was the fifth person in whom they caused intense emotion.

"Well, have you caught the thieves?" inquired Lady Erythea, acidly.

"No-no, my lady," stammered Inspector Panke, gazing at the necklace.

"Perhaps you had better enlist the services of Mr. Spencer," said her ladyship, with a wave of her hand toward Billy. "This young man has already found the emeralds and restored them to me."

"Then," said Panke, with a searching glance at Billy, "I should like a full account, at once, of how you came by the jewels."

"Sure," said Billy genially.

Mr. Lambe set chairs for them both. All four seated themselves; Lady Erythea, with an avid determination to keep abreast of affairs, held her ear-trumpet close to Billy and the policeman.

Billy repeated his tale with fuller detail this time, and described, not without a twinge of embarrassment, his downfall at the hands of Calamity Kate. Lady Erythea's lips tightened grimly, the description did not surprise her. The inspector had his book before him and made careful notes.

At the conclusion he regarded Billy pensively, and with a touch of envy.

"It's a pity you didn't hang on to them, when you'd got them in hand," said Panke. "But, of course, we know what Calamity Kate is."

"Who?" echoed Billy.

Panke described briefly the popular names of the two thieves, and what little was known about them.

"And now, Mr. Spencer, I have some questions to put to you—for the in-

LESSON FOR APRIL 8

ABRAHAM THE HERO OF FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 12:1-5. Hebrews 11:8-10, 17-19.

GOLDEN TEXT—Abraham believed God and it was counted unto him for righteousness.—Romans 4:3.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Romans 4:1-25; Galatians 3:6-9; James 2:21-24.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Abraham Obeying God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Abraham, the Man Who Trusted God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Abraham, the Friend of God.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Abraham, the Pioneer of Faith.

1. His Call (Genesis 12:1-5). The human race, as such, had failed, and now we see God's purpose as to the redemption of the race taking shape. Therefore he singles out this lonely man to make him the head of a nation through whom redemption was to come.

1. His Separation (v. 1). He was called to go out of his own country; to separate from his kindred and go to an unknown land. These were all very dear to his heart but they were to be given up that Abraham might have God and be the father of all the faithful. Abraham was living among idolaters; therefore, he must separate from them. Even his kindred must be left behind for they were idolaters. Following God costs much that is dear and precious to us today. To attain unto the highest and best in the spiritual life many things which are pleasant to the carnal nature must be sacrificed.

2. God's Gracious Promise to Him (vv. 2-3). (1) "I will make of thee a great nation." This was fulfilled in a natural way in a great posterity (vv. 13-16) and in a spiritual seed. See John 8:39, Galatians 3:16-17. (2) "I will bless thee." God has wonderfully blessed Abraham in a natural and spiritual way and still greater realization of this promise is to come to Abraham's seed. (3) "Make thy name great." Abraham was called the friend of God. James 2:23. Abraham is a universal name. (4) "Thou shalt be a blessing." Untold blessings have come to the world through Abraham and still a greater blessing will be realized when the fullness of God's purpose concerning that nation shall be realized. (5) "I will bless them that bless thee." (6) "I will curse him that curseth thee." Abraham's seed is God's very touchstone. Nations and individuals who have used well Abraham's descendants have been blessed and those who have cursed them have in turn been cursed. (7) "In thee shall all the families of the earth be blessed." This is the all-comprehensive promise of God because it shall come to the world through the Messiah, Galatians 3:16. While Abraham had to give up much he gained infinitely more than he lost.

3. His Obedience (vv. 4-5). Without question or delay Abraham took his departure to the unknown land. Though he did not know whether he was going he knew that God had spoken. To have God's command and promise is enough for the child of faith.

11. Abraham's Faith (Hebrews 11:8-10).

1. Its Source Was the Word of God. He had heard God's call. Because God had spoken to him he went forward. Faith takes God at his word.

2. Its Practice (vv. 9-10). He never settled down anywhere even in the land of promise. He was a true pilgrim. He was content to pass through the land because his eyes were fixed on a city which had foundations, whose builder and maker was God. The Christian does not settle down in this world as though he was going to make his home. He lives in the world but is not of it. His citizenship is in Heaven.

111. Abraham's Testing (11:17-19).

1. At the Command of God He Offered Up Isaac, His Only Son. (v. 17). Going out into an unknown country was simple in comparison to laying his son on the altar of sacrifice. But he who had obeyed God in going out from his country and kindred was now to pass through the supreme test.

2. The Promise of Blessing Was Wrapped Up in Isaac. (vv. 18). It was not a promise which might take any descendant of Abraham but this particular child. The way seemed dark and the command conflicting with the promise, but faith does not consider difficulties.

3. The Supreme Venture (v. 19). Abraham so completely trusted God that he was willing to go all the way with Him, being assured that God would even raise him as from the dead, in order to make good his promise.

VINES ADD BEAUTY TO SURROUNDINGS

Climbers Make the Home Attractive—Do Not Injure Walls—May Use Trellis.

The impression that vines are injurious to the walls of a house, making them damp or causing woodwork to rot, is erroneous, says the United States Department of Agriculture. On brick and stone buildings some of the clinging vines are most appropriate and attractive in completing the charm of the home surroundings. On a wooden house the vines should not be permitted to become so thick that they prevent proper ventilation and timely painting, but hot sunshine is very destructive to paint, and the shade of vines helps to preserve it.

There are several devices for growing vines so as to permit removing them from the woodwork when it is necessary to paint the house. A trellis can be made with hinges near the ground, or a chicken wire placed over hooks at the highest point, so that it may be taken down, vines and all. Another type of trellis can be made of chicken wire on a pipe frame which will keep vines entirely away from woodwork. Vines are also appropriate on fences, arbors, pergolas or summer houses.

CHOICE FLOWERS TO PLANT

Splendid Assortment of Posies That Are Easy to Grow Under Ordinary Conditions.

Easiest to cultivate under ordinary garden conditions are the following flowers, says the United States Department of Agriculture. In choosing any of these for a bed or a border, it is well to note the usual growing heights: Sunflower, where a plant over four feet is wanted; Joseph's coat, love-lies-bleeding, heliopsis, and prince's feather, for a three-foot effect; cornflower, strawflower and zinnia, growing about thirty inches high; about twenty-four inches, calliopsis, summer chrysanthemum, coneflower, galliard, marigold, poppy, and snow-on-the-mountain; about eighteen inches, mignonette; about twelve inches, Cape marigold, culendula, California poppy, balsam, candytuft, petunia, Drummond phlox, pink, dwarf nasturtium, portulaca, and sweet alyssum.

LOCATION OF THE GARDEN

The garden should be located in full sun wherever possible and this factor should receive first consideration when the location of the plot is being selected.

USE THE TRENCH FOR IRRIGATION

Scheme Conserves Water and Labor—Best Way to Reach Roots of Plants.

The proper amount of moisture is about as essential as enough warm sunshine, to produce a good garden crop. Too much moisture is worse than too much sunshine, for in the latter case the soil can be loosened, conserving what moisture the ground holds.

When the season is long and hot, with very little rainfall, the cottage gardener, if thoroughly interested, takes advantage of almost every opportunity to play the hose on his growing crops; thinking, of course, that he is doing just the right thing. Perhaps more young plants are destroyed by shooting a cold spray of water on them than are killed or stunted by drought, or other reason.

One splendid method of watering a garden, when sufficient water is available, and its metered cost is not to be considered, is the trench irrigation plan. Small ditches, three or four inches deep, along the plants, with a steady stream of water slowly running into the ditch, will be highly beneficial, and at the same time conserve the water supply, by not sending it where it is not needed. The roots, especially in the dry weather, search for moisture and continue their downward growth. Long roots are advantageous to many plants, while others do not need them.

The ditch irrigation plan will be found most beneficial and interesting, if used as it is in sections where it is the only way—a series of ditches along each row or a small group of rows, then when the watering is being done, train the stream through one ditch to the other, until the entire garden is given a good soaking.

During a long drought, once a week will suffice when the ditch watering plan is used. The ditch may be closed each time after irrigating, or it may be left open. By closing, the water is practically sealed in and naturally the ground will hold the moisture longer and the top will not crust, necessitating immediate cultivation, such as is necessary following a heavy rain.

TIME TO APPLY LIME

The time to apply lime is in the spring after the ground has been plowed or spaded. The lime can then be thrown broadcast over the surface thickly enough to give a decided white coating on the ground. It is then harrowed or raked into the top three inches of soil. The lime should not be plowed under as its tendency is to work downward, and by applying it on the surface the greatest benefit from it is secured.

Sanitary Concrete on the Dairy Farm

Concrete is the dairy farmer's most desirable building material. Barn floors and foundations, milk houses, cooling tanks and other necessary equipment of verminproof, easily-cleaned Concrete invite confidence and bring buyers. They are next to good stock as a dairy farm attraction. Their cost is small when the many advantages of Concrete are fairly considered. Their upkeep cost is practically nothing because Concrete never rots, rusts, burns or needs expensive repairs. It is as everlasting as solid stone.

Before you make any improvement on your place find out how economically it can be done with Concrete. Any Security Cement dealer will gladly give you full information and furnish Free Blue Prints showing how to build best at least expense. Ask your dealer for them.

Our Ever-Changing Weight.

Weighted in a delicate scale, it would be found that your weight is a very flake quality. If the scales are delicate enough it would be seen that the mere act of stepping from the platform and back entails a loss of weight. The "battling" of an eyelid means an expenditure of energy and a consequent loss of weight.

Jewels Early Draw Men's Attention.

Personal ornaments or jewels appear to have been among the very first objects on which the invention and ingenuity of man were exercised. There is no record of any people so rude as not to employ some kind of personal decoration. The jewelry of the ancient Egyptians has been preserved in their tombs.
